

Once, there was a boy called Eric,
who lived in a forest.

Eric loved to help his mother in their garden and play with his animal friends.

He felt like the happiest boy in the world.

At night, he liked to look up at the sky.

"I see the moon, so high above, shining on me and the friends I love," thought Eric.

One day, when winter had turned the forest white with frost ...

... Eric's mother took him on a long journey ...